YPT is thrilled to present One Thing Leads to Another, an innovative new work of theatre created specifically for infants!

Former YPT Artistic Director Maja Ardal returns to Young People's Theatre for their 50th Anniversary Season with an innovative new work commissioned by YPT and created specifically for infants! Developed from Ardal's original concept, research and theme, this unique work is a collective collaboration by Maja along with Jani Lauzon, Mary Francis Moore, and Julia Tribe. One Thing Leads to Another will be presented in the Studio from February 8 to 21.

As they develop and thrive, babies use all of their senses to learn about the world. In this play, performers engage with YPT's youngest-ever audience using music, enticing visuals, and tactile experiences. -The show features the transformation of every-day objects into fantastical phenomena. -When the show is over, kids and caregivers can experiment with objects from the play right on the set – to have their own additional play experience.

French theatre-maker Françoise Gerbaulet has noted "I am always deeply surprised by the seriousness of infant spectators. Babies do not understand, they absorb - the sound of voices, the music of words, [...], love, they absorb them all... Babies are ideal spectators".

One Thing Leads to Another is sure to engage, stimulate and delight baby and parent or adult companion alike. Participants will sit on mats on the floor enabling adults to interact closely with their infants. YPT has made special arrangements to accommodate parents, with a special stroller station, diaper changing station and a quiet area.
